To Victor, Rick, Kit, Hal

Hi, Victor -

If I did meet Paul McGovern last week, he never revealed his identity to me.

Re the audio, Nicci is wrong. What happened was that I've never before used a mike in public speaking, and the real cause of the issue was that we never did a sound test beforehand.

So I did what I always do, which was project my voice strongly. I'm softly spoken in private, but not when addressing a group. Right at the start of the presentation, that caused a feedback squeal, so Nicole turned down the volume. That caused the problem. If I'd spoken in a normal tone of voice rather than speaking with intention, the amplifier volume could have been louder. I assure you I know how to talk to a large room of people without a microphone - I've been doing it for 25 years, as have you!

Best to all, Bill

Did you meet Paul McGovern: YES or NO?

NOTE: Nicole was emphatic in stating that the microphone worked FINE,... it was YOUR voice which did not carry vey well.

This e-mail will be forwarded to ANONYMOUS per his request.
