Hi. I'm a former "Mufon investigator" that has spent many years analyzing and investigating the available evidence on the existence/non-existence of extraterrestrials. I'm presently taking a "baseline" approach that attempts to locate clues as to why an alien race would travel immense distances to interact with our civilization. From that, I try to identify possible "clues" that would lend credence to the theory. I'm hoping that this sort of investigation, unlike the present method of debunking evidence of sometimes suspicious origin, can provide a more direct route to the source of truth.
